MEDICINAL.

A Padlocked Heart.

How many women lock their hearts and sufferings in their own hearts and silently endure misery and pain which would cause strong men to cry out in agony.

The sufferings of women are more than half unknown and unappreciated. The refined sensitiveness of their organism lays them liable to a thousand exquisite tortures which a coarser nature can never experience or comprehend.

The least derangement or disorder of the delicate special organism of their sex overtaxes the whole physical system, and the sufferings which ensue are often of a most distressing nature. It is a mistake to suffer these troubles in silence. They may be cured in the perfect privacy of home, without the repugnant ordeal of examinations and "local treatment" which the family doctor is sure to impose upon you.

No physician in the world has had a wider or more successful experience in the treatment of women's diseases than Dr. R. V. Catarrh, Chief Consulting Physician to the Central Hotel and Surgical Institute, of Buffalo, N. Y. His "Favorite Prescription" is a positive cure for the most obstinate and complicated feminine difficulties.

It is the only medicine of its kind prepared by an educated, skilled physician.

Mr. J. P. Sneed, of Omen, Texas, writes: "My wife was badly afflicted with female weakness. She tried three of the best physicians in the country without benefit, but at great expense. She grew worse, and we gave up in despair. She was not able to stand on her feet for a time, complaining of dragging down pains in abdomen. Nothing but an untimely death seemed awaiting her, when—happy thought!—the name of Dr. Pierce came to my mind. I wrote to Dr. Pierce for his advice. He told me, my wife improved perceptibly from the first six weeks' treatment, continued the treatment six months, and pronounced the cure complete. At a cost of less than one month's treatment by the best physician we employed before consulting Dr. Pierce. She used Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and the lotions recommended by him. It has been two years since, and the good effect is permanent."

LOVED ABSINTHE AS WELL AS WIFE.

It is not often that such a striking romance is unfolded in a police court as that which was revealed to Magistrate Hedges in Harlem Tuesday morning.

The romance involves the loves of Louise Constance Serret, daughter of a former colonel in the French army, and of Louis Claude Sebelotte and of Eugene Le Pien who were once dashing officers in the military service of the same nation.

The responsibility for the story being set forth at this time rests upon absolute fact. For the love that Sebelotte bore to his wife was not stronger than the fascination which the powerful drink had for him. If this had not been the case Sebelotte, who is more than six feet and two inches in height and has a soldierly appearance, would not have been in the police court upon the charge of having beaten his wife, Louise.

Sebelotte and Louise first met in the southern part of France nearly twenty-five years ago. It was when Sebelotte was a surgeon in the army. He was dashing and wayward. Louise fell in love with him, but her father opposed marriage because of Sebelotte's wildness. The young persons became engaged. When Colonel Serret learned of this he took his daughter to Paris, so that she would forget her sweetheart. Sebelotte was dismissed from the French service about the same time.

Louise recovered sufficiently from the shock of separation to receive the attentions of Eugene Le Pien, who was an officer in the French army at that time. Colonel Serret did not oppose their union. So Eugene and Louise were married more than twenty years ago. Shortly after the wedding they came to New York to seek a fortune in the new world. They did not ask for any assistance from their parents, and in the struggle for a livelihood the young wife was a teacher of French at the Home of Our Lady of the Rosary, in State street.

Le Pien was subsequently informed that his mother had died in France and had left him a fortune. He went to that country, and when he returned here, he brought with him Leonis Lazard, who was fifteen years old and a daughter of the Commissary of Police at Brussels, Belgium.

It was discovered that Le Pien had abducted the girl. He fled to Paris, where he was arrested and convicted under the Franco-Belgium treaty. He was sentenced to twenty years' imprisonment in France. At the end of that term he was to be taken to the island of New Caledonia for the rest of his life.

When Mme. La Pien heard of her husband's conviction she was told that by the law of France she was divorced and could wed again. She went to St. Augustine, in Canada, where she met Louise Sebelotte at a social gathering. The old love returned. They were married. Mme. Sebelotte received a considerable sum of money upon the death of her father. Her husband's love for absinthe had swept away nearly all of her little fortune, and the couple came to this city. The wife opened a dyeing establishment at No. 2147 Third avenue. Sebelotte's absinthe drinking made him abusive to his wife. He slept for two years, according to Mme. Sebelotte, with a revolver under his pillow and a club at the head of the bed. He would threaten his wife sometimes, and then would kiss her.

Mme. Sebelotte finally could endure that kind of life no longer, and she had a warrant issued for her husband's arrest. In the Harlem court Sebelotte declared that his wife was anxious to leave him and go to New Caledonia and see her former husband, Le Pien, who was to be taken to the island soon. Magistrate Hedges said he felt sorry for Sebelotte, who undoubtedly loved his wife. He changed the complaint of wife beating to disorderly conduct. Sebelotte was held under $1,000 bonds to keep the peace. [N. Y. Herald.]

J. C. Berry, one of the best known citizens of Spencer, Mo., testifies that he cured himself of the worst kind of piles by using a few boxes of DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve. He had been troubled with piles for over thirty years and had used many different kinds of so-called cures; but DeWitt's was the one that did the work and he will verify this statement if any one wishes to write him Charles G. Lennon.

PROTECTION FOR THE 'POSSUM.—The

Georgia House of Delegates on Friday passed the McCook bill to protect the festive 'possum. When this bill was introduced it was the standing joke of the last session, and at one time was the cause of some very lively and picturesque filibustering to save it from everlasting oblivion. It was averted, however, and came hobnobbing up serenely at the top of the calendar in the House Friday morning. Mr. McCook, the patriarchal member from Decatur, made a few 'possum remarks to his fellow members, and, being ably seconded by Hon. Pupe Brown, president of the State Agricultural Society and embryonic candidate for governor, the famous bill was out with only fifteen votes against it. The measure is intended to protect the succulent 'possum from the rapacious hunter at the mating season. Mr. Brown declared in no uncertain tones that it was a good bill to pass, and it may be that he will make his championship of it count for votes when he goes out upon the stump to talk for the governorship next year.
